Promoting middle-market companies for government incentives.

About

Middle-market companies are the backbone of the economy in communities nationwide. That's why state, local, and Federal governments have budgets to safeguard against losing flourishing companies, as well as funding to attract successful businesses. Few companies understand the opportunities in the wealth of incentives available and even fewer are prepared to position themselves to receive maximized offers.

At Schnitzler Inc, we have the insight, experience, and relationships necessary to help clients navigate the complex world of incentives. In fact, we are the only firm positioned to advocate for middle-market companies. We negotiate on our clients' behalf and efficiently procure awards in as little as four weeks.
